

The figure consists of two scatter plots. The top plot shows a positive correlation between the number of children and the number of mothers, with a regression line indicating a positive slope. The bottom plot shows a negative correlation between the number of children and the number of mothers, with a regression line indicating a negative slope.

--

[illegible]